One way to do this would be to write a loop that processes the button's state in a while loop that will toggle the button on and off every time it is pressed, and stop the loop when the button is released. If you can update your code to not use a do-while loop, you can do the same thing with this: if(pressed) doSomething(); else doSomethingElse(); You could also use a nested if statement: if(pressed) { if(anotherCondition) doSomething(); else if(notAnotherCondition) doSomethingElse(); } else if(anotherCondition) doSomethingElse(); But it's best to take the extra loop out of your code as much as possible. Ballyid North Public House (Kilkenny) Description Ballyid North Public House is very convenient for sports in all directions. We have private parking, we have free WiFi, live entertainment, a lovely bar, tasty food, seating and Irish jigs on the premises! We are two minutes from the North Main Street, the shops and the bus stops are on our doorstep. In a little village called Ballyid, just north of Kilkenny City. The accommodation is spacious and comfortable with a lovely cottage style open fire in the lounge. An unusual feature of the cottage is that the bedroom is located over the lounge. This means that the bedroom has a lovely view of the open fire in the lounge. The cottage is on one level so there is plenty of space for guests. The cottage has a king size bed with high thread count bed linen and a single bed, and has a seating area with a pull out single bed in the lounge and a table with chairs. There is WiFi access in the cottage and free access is available throughout the pub area. The pub area has plenty of seating and tables and also serves as a function room. There is a lovely porch at the front of the pub, which is furnished with wall to wall seating and has outside access. We have a lovely bar, a cosy sitting room, a large lounge, darts, pool, TV's.
