Q: PHP - Execute many MSSQL queries in one query I have a loop that reads data from Excel and inserts it into a MSSQL database. Each record will be inserted individually, and I have a query that inserts it for me if it doesn't already exist. But, sometimes a record will be inserted twice, and sometimes it will be inserted three times. I need to find out which rows are duplicates so I can delete one of them. I was hoping there was a way to combine them into one big query that tells me all the duplicates so I can just delete them, but I have no idea how to do that. Thanks,

A: `INSERT INTO TABLE(field1, field2, field3) VALUES('a', 'a', 'a');`

A: You can use the `ON DUPLICATE KEY` on your `INSERT` query to tell the server to catch the duplicate ID if it happens. `INS`
